Exploring Emotions: Emoji Card Skittles

Supplies and Preparation:

Emoji Cards:

Print and cut Emoji cards to make a deck. Place Face down.

If printed in black and white, child can color the card after each skittles experiment as an additional activity.

Skittles: 1 small bag will provide for 2 Skittle Emoji faces. I bought a big bag to have on hand for future Emoji faces.

Water: About 1/8 c of warm/hot water in container that is easy to pour out of.

Round Plate- to make Skittles Emoji on

→ Introducing Emotions

Read and Act out the emotions in the books.

Talk about and ask questions about each emotion after child acts out the emotion.

(ex: When do you feel disappointed?)

I asked the 7yo if he wanted to read or act out. He acted out the first book and read the second book. We performed for his 17 month old

→ Play the Game:

Child picks a card from face down cards on the deck.

Child then uses skittles to create his own Emoji emotional expression.

Skittles Experiment

Water:

for younger children- About 1/8 c of warm/hot water. Pour slowly in the same spot on edge of plate for best effect.

For children who can follow step by step directions and pour-

Provide verbal directions the first time how much in cup, how to pour, SLOWLY.

After the 1st time review steps then child can proceed

→ Extension Activities

Offer the opportunity to choose another card and make another emoji.

Offer the opportunity to paint a picture with the skittles water. It will be similar to painting with water colors.
